NO WHEELS TURN
UNTIL CARRANZA
ENVOYS ARRIVE

Mediators Mark Time, Awaiting Word from the "First Chief."

HANGS ON THE MEXICANS

Result of Informal Conferences to Determine Mediation Program.

SITE IS NOT YET SELECTED

Alfredo Breceda, Just Arrived from Mexico, Meets Constitutional Junta Here.

By SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

Niagara Falls, Ontario, June 26.—All the work of the mediation conference has been halted pending the arrival of Carranza's delegates. Despite the entire absence of news regarding the rebel plans, the same feeling of optimism which was in evidence yesterday prevails in mediation circles. Ambassador Naon, of Argentina, is convinced that the delegates named by Gen. Carranza will be here within a short time.

Rafael Zubaran, Campeny and Luis Cabrera are the only men expected. The place where the Mexicans will confer has not yet been selected.

Dr. Naon will remain throughout the Mexican conference. The American delegates also will be on hand to advise the Mexicans concerning the attitude of the United States government regarding any suggestion made by the delegates of Gen. Huerta and Gen. Carranza for final settlement of the Mexican problem.

CARRANZA ENVOY HERE.

Alfredo Breceda Confers with Members of Constitutional Junta.

Alfredo Breceda, one of Carranza's confidential advisers, arrived in Washington yesterday and held long conferences with Luis Cabrera and Rafael Zubaran, Campeny, thanking members of the constitutional junta here. In the morning, Breceda conferred for several hours with Zubaran, and yesterday afternoon for a similar length of time with Cabrera. Last night the three were in conference until a late hour.

No word has been received from Carranza indicating his willingness to send representatives to an informal conference with the Huerta delegates to endeavor to arrive at some peaceful settlement of the internal affairs of Mexico, although it is hourly expected. It was rumored here last night that Carranza will not send this word until he receives a full report from Breceda of the advisability of this move, but other representatives of the rebel leader declared positively that Breceda's mission here was in no way connected with the expected conference.

Secretary of State Bryan has received unofficial advice that Carranza certainly will agree to the informal conference, and it is regarded now as only a matter of time before the "first chief" signifies his willingness.

The arrival of Fernando Iglesias Calderon from New Orleans, expected today, may be delayed until Monday, it was announced last night by a member of the junta. No importance is attached to this, as Calderon's chief business here will be to represent at the informal conferences with the Huertistas the constitutional government, with Luis Cabrera as the other delegate.

VILLA IS MARCHING ON.

Xacateca, Mexico, June 26.—With the exception of 1,000 men left to guard work trains and railroads, Villa's entire army is on its way to Aguas Calientes. Villa doubts that a stand will be made there. He is inclined to believe that the Huertistas will bend every energy in preparing for their last stand at Queretaro.

Reports continue to come from the advance guard of Huertistas retreating. Many prisoners are being taken and all signs of willingness to take the oath of allegiance to the constitutional cause and join Villa's army. Few "colorados" surrender, and those captured are promptly executed.

Maj. Rodolfo Fierro, known as Villa's private executioner, who was wounded, will recover. It was charged he was shot by members of the Zaragoza brigade, relatives of men he had murdered, but this is doubted.

RESOLUTE AGAIN FIRST.

New York, June 26.—It was the same old story on the sound today. In the regatta of the Seawhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club, the Resolute finished first with the Vanitie and Defiance bringing up at the tail end of the procession.

As some alterations have been made in the rig of the Vanitie, an official corrected figures were given out, but the Resolute defeated the Vanitie by 4 minutes 3 seconds and the Defiance by 10 minutes 10 seconds on actual time over a 20 1/2-mile course.

DYING, BRINGS HELP TO WIFE.

Binghamton, N. Y., June 26.—After receiving fatal injuries in an automobile accident today, Frank Pierce, an Otsego merchant, walked a mile to get help for his wife and stepdaughter, who had been injured seriously, then collapsed and died.

SENATOR WILLIAMS, of Mississippi, who declares that the Senate will "stick to job."

"WE MEAN TO STICK AND FINISH OUR JOB!"

Senator Williams Announces There Will Be a Democratic Quorum Until Adjournment.

OPPONENTS ARE "PLUTOCRATS"

Senator John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, yesterday voiced the general indignation of the Democratic leaders over the petitions that are pouring in upon the President and Congress urging an adjournment. Said he:

"I have been receiving and I understand other Senators have been receiving a multitude of letters from our constituents forwarding to us certain ready prepared letters and letters sent to them for their signature and then to be forwarded to Congress to shut up shop and go home because it is not doing any good, and that its mere presence in Washington is a menace to business, warning us about the interference of politicians with business and so forth."

"This is a part of the scheme that has been going on, a scheme not only obvious, but obviously undemocratic—plainly and palpably plutocratic."

Senator Williams said that the failure of Clinton & Co. was not due to the tariff act, "but to overexpansion." He asked to have printed in the Record President Wilson's address to Virginia editors at the White House Thursday.

"Now, I want to add this," said the Senator, "we are going to stay here with him. We are going to stay here and fight it out if it takes all summer. Our program was tariff, currency, and trusts."

"I should like to know whom the Senator means. I understand that some of us have gone to Europe and other representatives of the rebel leader declared positively that Breceda's mission here was in no way connected with the expected conference."

"And I understand this morning others desire to go to Europe," suggested Senator Clapp.

"We will manage to keep enough of us here to legislate and we are going to keep enough of us here when the time comes to put the bill through," replied Senator Williams.

"If a Senator has nothing better to do he might as well go to Europe, I suppose, but we Democrats in both houses meant what we said, and we are going to stay here until we prove to the country that we meant what we said. We did not act the fool on banking and currency, and we are not going to act like fools on the trust question."

"I am a Progressive myself," interjected Senator Warren, of Wyoming.

"And I am charmed to know that the Senator from Mississippi is a Progressive. The Republicans have constituted a quorum here in greater ratio than the Democrats on every roll call. The Senator as he goes along may note that the whole of this side of the chamber have been here to help at all times to make a quorum."

TARIFF LONE GUN
IN G. O. P. BATTLE

Republicans Supported Wilson Administration on All Other Issues.

LOOKS GOOD FOR MOOSE

Progressives Offered Constructive Alternatives for Democratic Bills While Old Party "Just Kicked."

By JOSEPH P. ANNIN.

Absence of a generally accepted leadership on the side of the House will send the Republicans before the country this fall with but one issue upon which to attack the Democratic administration generally.

With the exception of the tariff, House Republicans admit they can have no generally accepted line of attack upon their common enemy. They feel that the tariff issue alone, if the present business depression continues, will be sufficient to bring about a big reduction in the Democratic majority. Some conscientiously believe it will be sufficient to overturn completely the present control.

No Constructive Record.

All the Republicans realize now, however, that they have no record of constructive effort as a minority party to point to. Because of the inability of the members of the party in the House to meet on common ground, the Republicans have not advanced one definite alternative proposal for any of the big measures which the Democrats have enacted. With the exception of the tariff, the Republican leaders have been unable to withhold their followers from a more or less general support of Democratic measures. On currency, tolls repeal, and trust bills, a very generous support was granted the Democrats from the other side of the aisle.

Even on the Mexican policy, which the Republicans now fear will never be an issue upon which they can appeal for a repudiation of the Democratic administration, many Republicans will commend the administration. If the Niagara conferences culminate successfully, as now seems probable, the Republicans admit that the Mexican and Latin-American policy will be hailed generally as one of the brightest accomplishments of the administration. If, on the other hand, the mediation plan fails utterly, the entire foreign policy will be subject to attack by the Republicans. Politicians realize that though that a foreign policy which in disastrous entanglement will not narrow up strong feeling one way or another in any congressional districts.

Hard to Explain.

How they will explain to the voters the wiping out of party lines on big Democratic measures is a question to which Republicans are giving not a little consideration. They explain that they voted for the various bills because of certain commendable features. But they did not offer alternative measures containing these commendable features and eliminating what they criticize in the Democratic measures. Moreover, many Republican amendments were accepted by the Democrats, particularly on the trust bills. One Republican declared yesterday that he would not be forced to stand responsible for the bad features of any bill for which he voted, providing there was one good feature to justify his vote. The Democrats who voted for their own measures, however, he said, would have to stand responsible for all the bad features.

The Progressives in the House are in a good deal better position to go before the country in an attack upon Democratic program. The Progressives have had definite alternatives to propose for every party measure advanced by the Democrats—tariff, currency, tolls and trusts. Regardless of the merits of the Progressive proposals, they furnish material for campaigns in all districts, and furnish a common weapon for their orators against the Republican and Democratic parties.

Walter Johnson's Father-in-Law Proposes $25,000 Memorial to "New Constitution of Freedom."

A resolution was offered in the House yesterday by Representative Roberts, of Nevada, Republican, proposing an appropriation of $25,000 for a permanent memorial to the "New Constitution of Freedom."

The resolution provides that the government should not proceed to build the memorial until the business men of the United States subscribe $25,000 for the purpose. Mr. Roberts declared that the design of the memorial shall be prepared by a committee composed of the Secretary of Commerce, the president of the American Federation of Labor, and a representative of the American Protective Tariff League.

The resolution makes the American Manufacturers Association responsible for the care of the memorial. Last week Mr. Roberts introduced a bill providing for the creation of a Bureau of Psychology in the Department of Commerce.

The bill directs that inquiries into psychology, as applied to business, shall be conducted in Democratic administrations.

SALEM RELIEF
FUND, $97,000

Huge Contributions Being Received for People of the Stricken City.

7 DEAD; 100 ARE MISSING

Loss Set at $12,000,000, One-third of the City Being Wiped Out.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Salem, Mass., June 26.—Seven are known to be dead and 100 or more are missing. These were the figures tonight on Salem's fire. Many are injured.

The dead are:

Sarah Fluke, nurse, died of heart failure while being removed from Salem Hospital.

Infant child of Mary Hassell, charred body found in ruins.

George Lee, body found in ruins.

Samuel P. Walsey, body found in ruins.

Mrs. Sarah Abbott, body found in ruins.

Mrs. Edward McCrone, dropped dead at her home when it caught fire.

The property loss will reach $12,000,000. There are many families to be provided for and relief measures have been taken promptly. There are 10,000 persons homeless and three-fourths of the business section has been wiped out.

At a meeting in Salem city hall tonight a contribution of $5,000 was received from Henry C. Frick, the Pittsburgh and Beverly Farms multi-millionaire.

Word was received that the Odd Fellows of the United States pledged $10,000.

Fund Reaches $97,000.

The American Red Cross telegraphed $5,000 from Washington. The United States Machinery Company, the Salvation Army and the Knights of Columbus are assisting in relieving the conditions which are pitiful.

Many tents owned by the State militia already have been set up and there will be a tent colony of 5,000 people in the baseball park.

Up to tonight $97,000 has been raised, largely in response to Gov. Walsh's appeal. George Hallett, a prominent member of the North Shore colony, expects to raise $100,000 from residents of the North Shore, while Gardiner M. LaFollette, Hingham, Mass., has announced that he will provide 100,000 sandwiches as well as a large number of coats and tents for the stricken residents.

It was announced that the Boston and Maine Railroad, aside from giving transport, will grant the use of all its freight cars not in use at its Salem.

SUES FATHER-IN-LAW
FOR $100,000 BALM

Washington Woman Says He Stole Her Husband by Alienating Son's Affections.

Los Angeles, June 26.—Declaring she had been tricked out of her husband, Mrs. Louise R. Hayward today sued Dr. Henderson Hayward, her father-in-law, for $100,000 damages for alienating the affection of Lester Hayward.

Dr. Hayward is the owner of the Hayward Hotel here and is wealthy.

Mrs. Hayward met her husband in Washington while he was serving in the army. It was love at first sight, but the young man had no money to purchase his release from the army. Mrs. Hayward pawned her jewels, she says, and secured her lover's release, only to be unceremoniously rejected by her husband.

Mrs. Hayward claims to be a member of a prominent Washington, D. C., family and granddaughter of the prominent Alexander, founder of the first printing establishment in Washington.

Young Hayward was said to be in Detroit.

DUCHESS WANTS VOTE.

New York, June 26.—Consuelo, Duchess of Marlborough, arrived from England on the liner Aquitania today to pay a five-weeks' visit to her mother, Mrs. O. M. Belmont, at Newport. The American noblewoman admitted being a suffragist, but denied being a militant.

"Conditions are much different in England from those in this country," she said. "British men are not as tolerant with their woman nor as open-minded as American men. I believe women will cease their violence if granted the ballot."

The Duchess was met at the pier by her two brothers, Harold Vanderbilt and William K. Vanderbilt Jr.

"ICE CREAM KING" DEAD AT 79.

New York, June 26.—James M. Horton, head of the J. M. Horton Ice Cream Company, the biggest manufacturers of ice cream in the United States, died today, aged seventy-nine.

New York, June 26.—The first Fourth of July accident occurred here today, when fifteen-year-old George Bath, of Brooklyn, probably was fatally injured by the explosion of a cannon.

AGAIN REJECTS WHITMAN

Colonel Receives Moose Leaders at Sagamore Hill and Campaign Plans Are Worked Out.

Special Cable to The Washington Herald.

Oyster Bay, June 26.—In a boiling anxiety, Charles M. Duell, Jr., progressive agent for the Whitman gubernatorial boom, rushed to Sagamore Hill today trying to get Col. Roosevelt to withdraw his ban against the Whitman candidacy.

After a talk of an hour, Duell left the hill with Roosevelt's blank refusal to alter his attitude ringing in his ears.

The former President repeated even more vigorously what he said in his statement of yesterday that he had no use for Whitman, confident as he is that the district attorney is tied to the Barnes handwagon.

The colonel talked over the perplexities of the situation today with George W. Perkins. They came to no definite point.

Other callers at Sagamore Hill during the day were former United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge, of Indiana; McDill McCormick, the Chicago Moose leader, and John M. Parker, of New Orleans, chairman of the Louisiana Progressive State Committee.

In King Next Tuesday.

Roosevelt makes his dash into the ring as fighting leader of his party next Tuesday, when he enters the Pennsylvania campaign with two speeches in Pittsburgh.

He intends to cap Penrose just as he did in the campaign of 1912 when he put the Pennsylvania boss' party out of power.

Barnes will take a fling at the Wilson administration for what he has styled Wilson's policy of "mushy amiability." He will touch upon the "botching" of the tariff as he calls it, and deride the foreign policy.

BARNES SLAPS AT T. R.

Says It Looks as if Colonel Has Turned Reactionary.

New York, June 26.—The following statement was issued at Republican State headquarters as an interview with William Barnes, chairman of the Republican State committee:

"I am afraid that Mr. Roosevelt has turned reactionary, and does not realize that the Republican candidates for governor, the United States Senate and the other offices to be filled by the voters, will be nominated on the 29th day of September by the 239,000 Republicans enrolled in this State. If he thinks that I can control their action he credits me with a greater influence than I ought to possess."

"It is possible that the 111,000 enrolled Progressives who will nominate their ticket on the same day, in accordance with law, will take orders and nominate whomsoever they are told to nominate, but I think that any man in the Republican party who attempts to control the Republican electorate of this State will find himself in a sorry situation."

Mr. Barnes further commented on the decision of Justice Erlanger in relation to the suit brought against the Republican State committee that in making its call for the State convention it did not comply with certain technicalities of the election law.

"We hold that the primaries to be held on the sixth day of August, which will choose delegates to the State convention that will assemble on the eighth day of August at Saratoga Springs, especially as all unenrolled cities are invited to participate in them if they believe in the principles of the Republican party, are not subject to control by the State. The election law cannot apply, because it is abridgment of the right of the people to assemble, a right which the constitution of the State distinctly says shall not be abridged by the legislature. Justice Erlanger has decided this case in our favor."

"This convention will have no power to nominate candidates for public office. The nomination of candidates will take place on the twenty-eighth day of September at the official primary election. The convention will be a meeting of those who believe in the Republican party as the agency in this State for the preservation of order and honorable administration."

"It is my hope that the ablest, most sincere and unselfish Republicans of the State will come there, in order that the party may make its presentation through a platform which will show that it is abreast of the times. What is needed is men in Washington of brains and men in the administration at Albany of capacity to administer the business of this State with integrity and judgment."

Asked tonight what he thought of Amos Pinchot's fresh attack upon Perkins whom Roosevelt won't have shunted out of the party the former President remarked with a tone of disgust: "Oh, I won't say a word about that."

As Roosevelt is to speak for Gifford Pinchot, brother of Amos, who is running for United States Senator in Pennsylvania, it is wondered here what he will say to his recalcitrant leader when he gets to Pittsburgh.

The former President's voice, while still weak, is getting stronger every day. He will have it treated in New York next Wednesday by a specialist.

COLUMBIA WINS
BY HALF LENGTH

Blue and White Triumphs on Hudson for First Time in Nineteen Years.

PENNSYLVANIA SECOND

Cornell's Oarsmen, Picked to Win, Finish Third—Time Minute Slower Than Record.

Special Cable to The Washington Herald.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 26.—Columbia did it at last.

For nineteen years the Blue and White, under old Jim Rice and a band of other coaches has been swinging at the intercollegiate regatta, the big water tournament that has been a Cornell monopoly since the first day somebody got the idea of starting it.

And at last they did it. In a bitter, heart-pounding struggle down the last mile of a wonderful four-mile race, the Columbians outrowed and outgamed the mighty Ithacans, overhauled and passed the Pennsylvania, and staggered across the finish line with half a length of Hudson River water to spare.

The time of the winning boat was 19 minutes 37.4 seconds, fully a minute slower than the course record. Pennsylvania nosed out the groggy Cornellians for second place by a fifth of a second. Her time was 3:19.4. Syracuse was a bad fourth and Washington and Wisconsin fought to the last to stay out of the rear of the procession, the former winning this pathetic duel by half a boat length.

Fight for Every Inch.

It was the greatest contest ever seen on the Hudson; but it was not a race. It was a battle, a knock-down-and-drag-out fight for every inch of four miles. There never was a moment when any one of the first three boats might not have won.

Stroke for stroke and foot for foot they saw-sawed and strained, and fought, while mark after mark slipped past them, down the smooth river, and 50,000 men and women shrieked and cheered and roared, and yelled and prayed to a mighty organ of steam strains. And high above it all was the triumphant and hysterical yell of Columbia in victory—Columbia in victory, after eighteen years of defeat.

But this was only in the last mile. In that last stretch of open water below the shadows of the big railroad bridge stretching down to the finish mark, where Cornell had so often darted up like a powerboat and left Columbia and the others sweating and laboring in the rear. But now it was a different story.

One stroke of a whip-lash would have covered the three boats as they slipped out from behind the long stone pier into the last rush for the finish mark. For three miles they had rowed grimly and doggedly with now and now another shooting a long low shell a little way out in front.

Columbia Shoots Ahead.

A mile and a half above the bridge it had looked as if Pennsylvania was marching steadily away to a certain victory. Then Cornell dug her oars a little deeper and stronger and the staccato bark of the Cornell yell told every one that the Ithacans were leading.

Columbia was forgotten, and it was a race between these two. But half a mile above the bridge the New Yorkers began edging up. There was no haste and no fuss, but assuredly and persistently as the tide they were creeping up and up, and the three boats awoke close-locked in a bitter fight.

The wind had died away to nothing and the river was like a broad plate of tarnished silver. The white and gray of thousands of spectators all but blotted out the green and brown of the cliffs.

TO TEST SEAPLANE TODAY.

America Will Be Put Through Final Races at Hammondsport.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Hammondsport, N. Y., June 26.—The last test of the flying boat, America, was postponed until tomorrow after Glenn Curtiss made a thorough inspection of the great craft this evening.

The new twenty-four-inch hydroplaning boards have been attached, giving the America about 1,500 additional lifting power and the Curtiss forces have decided to work on the boat all night to fit her for her tests tomorrow.

Capt. Washington Irving Chambers, head of the Aeronautical Board, U. S. N., arrived in Hammondsport today, and will remain for the final tests. He will report his observations to the Secretary of the Navy.

The test tomorrow will be made early and the America will be sent up with sufficient ballast within her hold to make her virtually the same weight that she will be when she leaves for Europe.

RAID ON A COUNTRY CLUB.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Fairmont, W. Va., June 26.—Excitement attending preparations for the enforcement of the prohibitory amendment, operative next Tuesday, was increased here today when officers, acting under orders of Fred O. Blue, State tax commissioner, raided the Fairmont Country Club.

The steward was arrested, a wagonload of wines confiscated, and the lockers of many prominent members forced and their contents removed. The raid was under the existing law.

ANXIOUS TO KNOW HOW JAPAN TAKES "SLUR"

Administration "Watchfully Awaiting" Word as to Public Sentiment Regarding Correspondence.

NO FEAR OF SERIOUS FRICTION

The administration will await with considerable concern for the next few days reports from Japan as to public opinion in that country in regard to the correspondence between the two governments over the California alien land controversy. Washington officials realize that the only real danger from this controversy with Japan will arise from inflamed public opinion in the island empire. On several occasions the Japanese have already given evidence of intense feeling over the assumed slur on their nationality.

It is expected here that the publication of the correspondence at the suggestion of the Japanese government will be a good test of the sentiment in the country. United States officials are hopeful that the previous demonstrations against this government were due chiefly to political jingoism, but the developments of the next few days are likely to afford ground for a more reliable opinion.

While Japan in the correspondence that has been made public specifically declares that it will not regard the alien land controversy as closed "so long as the existing state of things is permitted to continue," Washington officials are firmly of the opinion that a satisfactory way finally will be found out of the difficulty. Japan is expected to continue its forceful representations on this matter, but opinion of United States officials as well as foreign diplomats is that Japan will do nothing at this time that would lead to a grave issue between the two countries. Japan, it is contended, is in no condition financially to assume an offensively belligerent attitude, even if she were disposed to do so.

GIFFORD JURY COMPLETE.

Albany, N. Y., June 26.—When today's session of the trial of Malcolm Gifford, the Hudson youth on trial in the County Court for the murder of Frank J. Clute, came to an end the jury was complete. Adjournment was then taken until Monday morning.

The jury is composed of twelve fathers. It was hinted that the prosecutor has a surprise to spring when the trial gets in full swing.

Samuel Gibson and his wife, of Troy, will give testimony for the defense, it became known tonight. They will tell of having seen the Clute automobile on the road the night of the murder, and will testify that it was not young Gifford who was in the car.

MILITANT SHRIEKS IN COURT.

Special to The Washington Herald.

London, June 26.—Historic Old Bailey Court was the scene of high excitement this afternoon when Nellie Hall, a militant suffragette, was found guilty of carrying a satchel full of explosives through the streets of London. Miss Hall raised such a commotion that sentence could not be pronounced so she was dragged back to her cell pending the imposition of sentence at a later date.

TWO KILLED BY TRAIN.

Montreal, Quebec, June 26.—Dr. Gabboury, a nephew of Superintendent Gabboury of the Montreal street railway system, and a companion were killed by a train at a grade crossing at Garbieres today.
